

What Happens to a Business That Has Little or Zero Cash Flow, Slow-Moving Stock, Too Many Staff and Less Than Impressive Profits?

Dear Business Owner,

You already know the answer to that one, but have you ever experienced a business situation like this? If you have, you're not alone. Many businesses, even well established companies have at some time teetered on the edge of the abyss due to a slowdown in orders or a grid-locked cash flow problem.

To help remedy a situation like this you could resort to selling off your stock at heavily discounted prices or perhaps lay off some staff or even try courting your bank manager in the wishful hope he'll offer you a bridging loan. But there is another way...
